

Alex Flinn is a former lawyer and the author of seven books, which appeal to ravenous and reluctant readers alike. Her first book, Breathing Underwater, was an American Library Association Top-10 Best Book for Young Adults and was the only novel included in Liz Claiborne Corporation's curriculum on domestic violence, distributed to thousands of schools. Her books have received other honors including Publisher's Weekly Flying Starts, International Reading Association's Young-Adult Choices list, Junior Library Guild selection, American Library Association Quick Picks for Reluctant Young Adult Readers, Booklist Top-10 Youth Mysteries, and VOYA Editor's Choice. Her novel, Beastly, will be released as a major motion picture in July, 2010. She lives in Miami with her husband and two daughters.
